Preservation of the Dead.

In speaking of the preservation of dead bodies, Gaillard's Medical Monthly says that Edward I., who died in 1307, was found not decayed 463 years subsequently. The flesh on the face was a little wasted, but not putrid. The body of Canute, who died in 1017, was found fresh in 1766. Those of William the Conqueror and his wife were perfect in 1522. In 1569 three Roman soldiers, in the dress of their country, fully equipped with arms, were dug out of a peat mass near Aberdeen. They were quite fresh and plump after a lapse of about 1,500 years. In 1717 the bodies of Lady Kilsyth and her infant were embalmed. In 1796 they were found as perfect as in the hour they were embalmed. Every feature and limb was full. The infant's features were as composed as if he had only been asleep for eighty years. His color was as fresh and his flesh as plump and full as in the perfect glow of health. The smile of infancy and innocence was on his lips. At a little distance it was difficult to distinguish whether Lady Kilsyth was alive or dead. The question is, What preservative was used, and how applied?

Value of Time.

The most profound mathematician could not estimate the amount of valuable time that is continually being wasted, and that, too, in the most wanton manner, by both the young and the old.

It is only at too late an hour that these spendthrifts of time begin to see their folly.

Physicians have ascertained and determined just the number of hours necessary for the needful refreshment of mind and body, and for the healthy continuance of this life; yet how many heed or are governed by this allotment of time for sleep? Too much time by far is spent in sleep. A young man, if he goes to school or business, will rise only at such an hour as will allow him sufficient time to prepare his toilet, eat his breakfast and reach in time his school or place of business; and here I may add this wanton habit is not confined to young men only; young ladies, men and women, all are guilty of wantonly wasting their time.

To sleep one or two hours longer than is necessary deducts just so much from the refreshment we otherwise would derive to our mind and body; for we are benefitted only by just the requisite quantity of sleep; no more. All in excess of that quantity does the recipient no good whatsoever—on the contrary, is productive of injury, for it weakens the body and stupifies the mind. But when we take that only which nature demands, the body is invigorated, and all its powers are renewed or renovated.

Let those persons who are guilty of sleeping late in the morning, and those who, when arisen, only idle away their time, try, just for an experiment, and see how much can be accomplished in a day in which not an hour, nor the fractional part of an hour, has been wasted. Besides, this habit of industry will in time become a part, so to speak, of their second nature; and the interest accruing therefrom will not come amiss, financially nor intellectually.—Sel.

Scientific Temperance Instruction.

Petitions have been sent out over the State in the interest of a bill that will come before the Legislature at its next session, asking the enactment of a law that shall make the teaching of science on the "effects of alcohol and other narcotics," compulsory in all schools under public control.

That these petitions may be generally signed and returned to Mrs. Antoinette Clevenger, Wilmington, Ohio, by January 5th, we ask the pastors of the State to call the attention of the people to this important measure. Believing in the power of concerted prayer on the part of God's people, we do most earnestly request pastors, and pastors' unions, to make this effort to secure a temperance education law the prominent subject of a particular evening during the Week of Prayer; not only announcing it, but bringing it forcibly before the service decided upon, that it may be neither forgotten nor overshadowed.

The success of this effort to fortify the children through education against the many temptations of today, will depend upon the purpose of the people, whose will in the matter should determine legislators. Shall we not, as individuals, let our purpose be known, not only by signing this petition, but also by personal appeal to our Representatives at Columbus? "What the children are today, the nation will be tomorrow."

Let us then, by emphatic and systematic means, aim to establish the children upon the principles of sobriety, that the nation of tomorrow, unfettered of ignorance, may have clear heads, strong hand and pure hearts.

Saved by Kindness.

We will call him Jim, for I do not remember his name. He had lost all respectability, and was a common gutter drunkard. His family had disowned him, and would not recognize him when they met him. Occasionally he would get a job at the stables where Dr. Davis kept his horses. One morning the doctor laid his hand on his shoulder and said:

"Jim, I wish you would give up the drink."

There was something very like a quiver of the man's lips as he answered:

"If I thought you cared, I would; but there is a great gulf between you and me."

"Have I made any gulf, Jim? Think a moment before you answer."

"No—you haven't."

"If you had been a millionaire, could I have treated you more like a gentleman?"

"No, you couldn't."

"I do care, Jim."

"Say it again, wont you?"

There were tears in the man's eyes now.

"I do care, Jim," with tender little emphasis on the Jim.

"Dr. Davis, I'll never touch another drop of liquor as long as I live. Here's my hand on it."

This was fifteen years ago; and "Jim" is today the respectable and respected Mr. —. Saved by a kind word! Will you make an effort this to win some one by kindness?—Christian Advocate.

Alden's Handy Atlas of the World.

GREAT CAESAR, or whoever the great Roman was who first said it, might well have had in mind ALDEN'S HANDY ATLAS OF THE WORLD, when he exclaimed, "Mittum in Parvo!"

THE INVESTIGATOR.

VOL. I. ASHLAND, OHIO, JANUARY, 1887. No. 1.

We have felt for some time that many of the readers of the EVANGELIST dislike the discussion of doctrinal and church polity question in the paper, and have been repeatedly requested to keep manuscript of that character from our columns. This we have cheerfully endeavored to do of late, and we think it good to continue this course.

But on the other hand we also know that many of our valued contributors desire to present their views on some of the controverted subjects that have been before our readers in the past, and possibly there are new questions in store for investigation that others would wish to present. Besides these facts, we have on hand a large amount of valuable manuscript which under the present arrangement will have to lie dormant, unless some provision is made to accommodate the controversial class of writers and readers of our brotherhood.

For the foregoing and other reasons, we shall issue, beginning with the New Year, a 32-page monthly pamphlet from this office to be entitled, THE INVESTIGATOR, and all who wish to prosecute or enter into the investigation of any subject pertaining to the Christian religion shall have a fair and reasonable opportunity with the express understanding that all will be done in a Christian spirit, avoiding all personalities and language unbecoming a Christian.

We shall reserve the right to close the discussion on any subject, when in our judgment each side has been fairly presented. We will also reserve the right to reject any article that we may deem improper or that in our opinion may injure the cause, we all feel in honor bound to protect and advance.

The pages will be numbered in order so that the issues of each year can be bound in a handsome volume, making 384 pages.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One Year, 50 cents.
Six Months, 25 "

For $2.00,

We will send the Investigator, Evangelist and Annual to any address, one year, or 15 cents worth of tracts and pamphlets of our own publication, or any other good we may advertise, instead of the Annual.

Our agents are authorized to take subscriptions for the INVESTIGATOR, and the usual commission will be given.
